SPRING FEVER.

I been a-feelin' kinduh mean,
Fat eyed and sortuh lazy,
And times the very thoughts of work
Just sends my system crazy.
I think this here disinclination
Is caused by this dastardly, tarnation
Spring fever.

Inatid of risin' with the birds,
I feel like layin' snoozey.
And gettin' up to 'tend to biz
Just makes me tired and woozy.
I hain't got pain enough to hurt,
But, gee, I need some thoroughwort—
Spring fever.

My boy he's got the same disease.
He's feelin' kinduh spindlin'.
His mother says he won't get up
And hustle in the kindin'.
I reckon I can't spank him none,
Fer he would say, sure as a gun,
"Spring fever."

I see some young folks yesterday
Out ottentobeele riding.
They seemed right full of harmony,
With love and joy abiding.
The way they 'hooped and sung and yelled
Seems to me it simply spelled
"Spring fever."

I reckon 'tain't no good to say
Us folks is only shirkin'.
'Cause when I'm feelin' extra well
I beat the path at workin'.
But at this season of the year
I just knock under to this here
Spring fever.

"What is it, then?"

Same Old Dope.

The sap will soon be running.
And the farmers soon will go
With their axes and their kettles
To the woods to get the hogs.
Soon the sirup and the sugar
Will be coming in once more.
Soon the "almost pure" and "near-stuff"
Will be peddled at the store.

Soon the country kids will gambol
Round the kettle as it boils
And all will eat their fill of sugar
While the kind old farmer toils.
Soon I'll sigh for maple sirup
Like I used to get of old.
But I'll only get the "near-stuff"
That the grocer's clerk has sold.

Norway's Goat Girls.

A Norwegian goat girl is able to take care of a large flock of goats. She watches them while they graze, milks them and sorts them. The last task is interesting. She takes a little bag of salt, and the goats crowd about her, leaping over each other's back, for the privilege of licking her hand after each dip in the bag. She loves her goats and makes pets of the young kids.

The Love Sonnets of a Cowboy.

The other day she asked me what I read, And I owned up right there and told her straight
But that the book I liked was "Six Gun Ned."
And, say, the roastin' that came on my head,
She said I oughter read each night till late

Badly Beat.

A customer said to Forbes, "Give me some Beet seed like you beat me on last year. When asked what was the trouble he said "Cows et 'em all up." It seems the gentleman spent 35c for Mangel Wurzel Beet seed, planted them with his corn planter and harvested 100 bushels of beets which made fine feed for his Dairy Cows. He wants to be Beet again.

EMBROIDERED GOWN.

Attractive Needlework on the Season's Frocks and Blouses.

EMBROIDERED GOWN.

The fashion leaders have decreed that it should be hand needlework in every available feature of the summer's wardrobe. Blouses and dresses are covered with embroideries, some of them in white and some in colors. Fagoting is coming in again, and so is cross stitch. Handmade laces, such as crochet Irish, are considered much smarter than anything done by machine. Gowns and blouses themselves are esteemed as of more value if fashioned by hand. Naturally all this requires an ample purse unless the owner of the particular costume has been able to put her own handwork upon it. In that case even stenciling is not despised, particularly in the cases of little girls' dresses, which afford an unusually wide field for the exercise of artistic taste. Play aprons adorned with quaint figures in colors are especially prized by young folks of the play age.

BABY'S OUTFIT.

Handmade and Smart Baskets For Smart Babies.

Never were baby things daintier than they are at present, and fond godmothers have no need to complain of the lack of variety or of beauty in available gifts. This being a lace season, the gowns of fine linen, cambric, lawn or muslin are marvels of filmy loveliness with their inset motifs, their in serious, edgings and flouncings of lace. The fashionable laces, point d'avenise, milanese, elmy and valen clennes, are well represented on these gowns in connection with hand embroideries. Swiss embroideries are also used. Of course the better robes are entirely handmade.

Dainty bonnets are of cream corded silk inset with lace vandykes. Fine lace and muslin fashion other caps, while caps of Irish crochet lace over silk are particularly handsome.

Little crochet and knit shoes in silk and wool are available, while novelties are kid shoes as soft as silk and such colors as rose, forgetment, sage or pale green. Silk shoes, hand embroidered, are also to be had.

Bibs are veritable works of art. Irish lawn bibs covered with hand embroidery or trimmed with lace or embroidered in colors and garnished with lace are to be had for baby's neck.

Elegant sets are shown in the fashionable shops, the up to date traveling basket being particularly attractive. Some of these are of white wicker, with lids and trays to match. They are beautifully decked with muslin or lace and knotted with ribbons to match. For those worn by baby. The underpart of the basket holds a baby's outfit, the upper part holding toilet articles.

The Height of Impudence.

They called him Puny Pepper, because he was, besides one of the smallest, one of the most peppery officers in the regiment. To see him throwing out his thirty-two inch chest was to be reminded of the frog in the fable who burst with blowing. When he gave his orders in a high treble he resembled a crow with a cough.

One day, in a particularly tropical temper, he accosted the regimental giant and began to abuse him. For awhile the huge private listened in silence. He was used to such scenes and took them with philosophic calm. But at last he grew weary and called out to a brother private:

"Bill, go and fetch a ladder, will you? I believe he wants to box my ears!"—Answers.
